The Foundations of Fine Furnishing

• • •

FOR nearly three-quarters of a century Barry and Staines have inspired appropriate interiors in homes and wherever there are floors.

Over that great span of years vogue has changed and evolved, but always to find these floor coverings pre-eminent in prefiguration of style and colouring, satisfying the most critical judgment of countless people throughout the world.

To-day, architects, prominent stylists, interior decorators, all who know the essentially paramount role of floors, recognize a Barry and Staines product as the foundation of fine furnishing. For now, more than ever before, the householder is primarily interested in pleasingly modernizing the home, and these floor coverings cater to every whim in taste and every purse.

Only tired-looking rooms are created if smart furnishings are fettered to shabby floors. There are patterns represented in the following pages which will stimulate the tone of present environment or suggest decorative harmony for new colour schemes whether personality demands vigorous or conservative treatment.

Super Marble and Straight Line Inlaids combine beauty with durability, whilst those who desire a less permanent floor covering will find a wide choice in Printed Linoleum Rugs and by-the-yard, the qualities of which are unsurpassed in their class. In the lower price field a beautiful and comprehensive selection of Vel-Felt and Baroleum is offered. Despite exceedingly low cost these goods carry the appeal and distinction traditional with the name of Barry and Staines.

And for public buildings, amidst the dignity of banks, the light-hearted charm of hotels, the quiet and hygiene of hospitals, the unsympathetic scuffle of feet in schools or the allure of shops there are here practical and less care-exacting floors.

These represent a name which has long been the assurance of satisfaction—they will prove a lasting investment.
